FAQs - Eco-friendly Outdoor Sessions CPD Workshop

- Who is this workshop for?

Anyone who is involved in leading sessions outdoors.

E.g. Schools, teachers, assistants, nurseries, nursery nurses, forest school leaders, outdoor learning practitioners, Scout/ Guide leaders, bushcraft leaders, outdoor activity organisations & instructors, environmental educators, nature workers, play workers, child-minders, home-school tutors, coastal/ beach school leaders, etc.

- What are the workshop sessions for this course?

Unit 1: Understanding the key environmental issues of leading sessions outdoors

Unit 2: Calculating your current outdoor sessions ecological footprint

Unit 3: Improving your outdoor sessions ecological footprint

Unit 4: Reviewing and celebrating your successes & taking your practise into the future.

- What happens when I finish unit 4?

On complete of this workshop, you may fill in a 'course completion form' which we will review and then send you a certificate of completion.

- How long will this course take to complete and how long can I access the workshop resources?

This depends on your current outdoor practise and how much time and effort you commit to this pledge. On average, it could take between one term (3 months) and three terms (10 months) if you do a little bit every week. Once you have paid for your course, you have a year to access the online resources and complete it. Our workshops are designed to be manageable within a year.

- What if I don't finish the course within a year?

You can always re-purchase the course if you need longer. All of our courses are at reasonable prices to allow accessibility for all.

- Can I share the workshop resources with my friends & colleagues?

If you purchase the workshop as an organisation, you may share the resources/ work with your colleagues so that you can work together to improve your organisation's eco-footprint as a whole. You are not permitted to download and share (or duplicate) our resources with friends or colleagues who are not in your immediate organisation.

Please see our Workshop Terms & Conditions for further information.

“We believe that all outdoor learning professionals have a duty of care to understand, manage and reduce their ecological impact. This workshop provides all types of outdoor practitioners with the tools to improve their outdoor learning ecological footprint”
